Two Brothers Killed When Auto Hits Bridge Abutment

Deaths Follow That of Sister By Five Weeks

Killed When Auto Hits Abutment on Saline River Bridge

Two brothers from Herod star route yesterday were killed in a highway crash exactly five weeks from the day that their sister and her young child were fatally injured in a collision that took four lives.

Killed instantly yesterday morning were John Colbert Jr., 29, and Randall Colbert, 25, in an auto that crashed into an abutment to the Saline river bridge on Route 1 two and a half miles south of the Routes 1-13 intersection in Galatin county.

Their sister, Emma Lou Patton, 33, wife of Robert H. Patton of Evansville, and the Patton's three-year-old son, Dennis Ray, were killed Oct. 17 in a collision that also took the lives of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Gross of near Eldorado on Route 142 north of Eldorado Oct. 17.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Colbert Sr., live on Herod star route and the men had been working in Evansville.

Both Killed Instantly
Coroner A. C. Cox of Ridgway, to whose funeral home the bodies were first taken, said that the brothers were in a late model Mer-

Curry automobile that belonged to their brother-in-law, Robert Patton. They were en route to their parents' home from Evansville when the car hit the abutment on the left side of the road as they were traveling southward. The highway makes a slight curve into the bridge on the north side, a severe curve on the other.

Coroner Cox said that John Colbert apparently was driving the car. He was thrown from the wreckage of the rear seat. Both definitely were killed instantly, he said.

The crash occurred around 5 a. m., the coroner stated. The wrecked car was first seen on the bridge when it had slid after hitting the abutment, by a truck driver from Atlanta, Ga. Alex McLean made the call to the funeral home.

PRESENTATION OF THE INGERSOLL LAW OFFICE MARKER. First historical marker to be placed in Saline county, was made Saturday afternoon at a special dedicatory program at the Raleigh grade school building. Pictured above is Arthur Bestor Jr. (to left of marker), president Illinois State Historical society, who made the actual presentation. The marker was accepted on behalf of Saline county by Louis Aaron, Harrisburg, president of the Saline County Historical society (at right of marker). Standing to the rear of the marker (left to right) are J. Ward Barnes, Eldorado, a past president Illinois State Historical society, who presided at the meeting; Earle Benjamin Searcy, clerk of the Supreme Court of Illinois who delivered the dedicatory address; and Scerial Thompson, Harrisburg attorney, a director and past president Illinois State Historical Society, who introduced Mr. Searcy. The marker, which will be placed at the main intersection in Raleigh, bears the following inscription: "Ingersoll Law Office, 1855-1857. Two hundred feet east of here was the Ingersoll Law Office. Ebon Clark Ingersoll and Robert Green Ingersoll, his younger brother, before they moved to Peoria, had a successful law practice in the Saline County Circuit Court which met in Raleigh, the first county seat of Saline county 1847-1859. Erected by the Illinois State Historical Society, 1954."

Ingersoll Historical Marker is Presented in Ceremony at Raleigh

Dedicatory ceremonies for the official presentation of the Ingersoll Law Office Marker—first historical marker to be placed in Saline county—were held at the Raleigh grade school Saturday afternoon.

Approximately one hundred persons attended, many from outside the county.

Earle Benjamin Searcy, clerk of the Illinois Supreme Court and one-time State Senator, gave the principal address. He was introduced by Scerial Thompson, director and past president of the Illinois State Historical society.

"It is well to gather here and reverently," Searcy told his listeners, "the sacrifices and privations our ancestors endured that we might have modern day institutions, homes, inventions and all that goes to make our country the greatest in the world today."

Funeral services for Luke Barnhill, 55-year-old real estate agent and former public official, were held at 3 p. m. today at the First Baptist church with the Rev. R. J. Morman, pastor of the church, conducting the service.

Burial was at Spring Valley cemetery near Mitchellsville.

The body of Mr. Barnhill, who died suddenly of a heart condition Saturday morning, lay in state at the Gibbons funeral home until time for the service.

Mr. Barnhill was elected to the office of city commissioner in April of 1951, the term not expiring until next year. However, because of his health he resigned as police commissioner to move to Tucson, Ariz., with his wife and niece. He returned to Harrisburg from Tucson in June of this year and set up his real estate office in his home on East Poplar street.

A public figure here for many years, Mr. Barnhill was born and reared at East Prairie, Mo., coming to Harrisburg in 1929. Here he was a trader, grocer and an elected justice of the peace before entering the real estate business.

In 1946 he was the Democratic nominee for sheriff, losing to Fred Wilmoth for the post. Then he was elected city commissioner in 1951.

He also for many years was a director of the Saline County Agricultural association, which holds the annual Saline county fair. He served as superintendent of the horse racing division and called races from the judges' stand.

Decorate Uptown Area for Christmas Season

The Spirit of Christmas already has struck uptown Harrisburg.

Last week the colored Christmas lights were strung around the square with linemen from the General Telephone Co. of Illinois doing the work as a community service.

This week the remainder of the decorating will be done and the city will provide its usual attractive appearance for Christmas shoppers and others who are uptown.

Fred Wunderlich of the Kiwanis club again is general chairman of the decorating committee and co-operating with the Kiwanis club in this annual venture will be the Lions club and Jaycees.

Mr. Wunderlich, who explained that decorating at Christmastime is a community project, said that students of Harrisburg Junior high school under George Carr, manual arts instructor, have made new decorations which will be added to those made in the past by junior high students under Mrs. H. B. Bauman, art supervisor.

One of the new items this year will be lighted, artificial Christmas trees on top the court house porches.

The city street and alley department will aid in putting up the decorations.

Mr. Wunderlich said he hoped that all the decorations would be up by Saturday.

Nationalists Beat Off Tachen Attack Claim Two Chinese Red Warships Sunk

Japanese Claim Two Fishing Vessels Sunk in Same Area

TAIPEI, Formosa (U)—The Nationalist Chinese claimed today that Nationalist destroyers and destroyer escorts had beaten off a Red attempt to attack vital Tachen island, sunk two Red warships and sent 11 others fleeing under cover of their own shore-based artillery.

The report from Nationalist military sources coincided with another from Tokyo that two 65-ton Japanese fishing vessels had been fired upon and sunk by an unidentified ship near the Tachen Island group, with the loss of two lives.

The two reports set the stage for possible international complications.

The general area involved was the same and both incidents took place at the same time—about 6 a. m. Monday—possibly involving a case of mistaken identity.

The Japanese ships, part of a fishing fleet of about 40 in the East China sea, were reported sunk about 20 miles east of the Tachen group in international waters.

Nationalist sources who reported the sinking of the two Red warships said the engagement took place about 10 nautical miles north of Tachen, or only about five miles from the Red-held island of Tumen.

The Tachen group is about 200 miles north of the Nationalist stronghold of Formosa.

The Japanese Foreign Office in Tokyo said it would ask the Nationalist government to help it investigate the latest attack on Japanese fishing vessels.

Nationalist officials refused comment but were said to be investigating.

The Nationalist reports did not specify the type of Red naval vessels reported in the naval engagement.

It would mark the closest naval approach the Communists have made to Tachen, northern anchor of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's island defensive chain. Tachen previously had been bombed by Red planes.

Red Red Base
It was in the same general area that the Nationalists lost the destroyer escort Taiping to Red torpedo boats eight days ago.

Nationalist bombers pounded Red-held Tumen, for the second consecutive day. They were smashing at Red invasion buildings on the tiny rockbound island. The Reds occupied the island last summer and fears have been increasingly expressed that they might use it as the springboard for a leap-frog attack against Tachen.

Today's air attack again was carried out before dawn by Nationalist B25 Mitchell bombers flying out of Formosa bases. Communist fighters were reported to have roared out of nearby bases on the mainland but arrived "minutes too late" to intercept the Nationalist bombers.

There was no report of Red attacks on Nationalist positions in the Tachens today other than sporadic artillery shelling of Nationalist-held Yichangshan Island by Communist guns on Tumen.

Demonstration Of Night Landings At Airport Tuesday

New landing lights and beacon lights have been installed at the Harrisburg-Raleigh airport and weather permitting there will be a demonstration of the lights between 7 and 9 p. m. Tuesday.

The public is invited to this demonstration, during which the lights will be operated and there will be night landings made by the Harrisburg Dairy airplane with Travis Gannon, airport manager, doing the piloting.

The Harrisburg Dairy announced that free rides will be given in this plane—a four-seater—and as many as can be accommodated during the period will be taken up. Mr. Gannon, an experienced pilot who has flown the "Hump" in Burma scores of times, will be at the controls during the free rides.

Garner Celebrates His 86th Birthday

UVALDE, Tex. (U)—John Nance (Cactus Jack) Garner, publicity-shy former vice president of the United States, celebrated his 86th birthday today deer hunting with his son and an old friend.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (U)—French Premier Pierre Mendes-France proposed to the United Nations today that a Big Four conference be held next May, but only after the Paris agreements regarding Germany have been approved.

The French premier stressed, however, that ratification was not the only condition for holding the East-West talks. The talks, he said, "must be seriously and honestly prepared by full exchanges of views, excluding all maneuvers of pure propaganda which could only sow disagreement, harden positions and finally compromise the success which we all hope."

Mendes-France in a forceful policy declaration to the 60-nation General Assembly, suggested the May meeting after explaining that by that time the Paris pacts will have been ratified by all countries concerned "as is certainly the case with France."

Mendes-France, whose attitude on East-West negotiations had caused some concern in U. S. government circles, said:

"There can be no objective and effective discussions in a conference of four except after the countries of West Europe directly interested have ratified the treaty of Paris. To act otherwise is to go into adventure; is to go toward a certain stalemate."

The European agreements on defense and unity, he declared, could serve as "a pilot project for large institutions which, we all hope, will one day assure democratic control and international co-operation and general disarmament—simultaneous, regulated and controlled."

Mendes-France after his May conference suggestion said "the French government is ready for its part to organize it at Paris, if that would be convenient to the other participants."

He said that from now until May the international situation should be studied with calm through normal diplomatic means and outside of "passionate reactions of overex-cited public opinion."

Austria Holds Key
The premier declared that the conference must be preceded by confidence and said settlement of

ICC Asked to Lower Rail Rates on Coal

CHICAGO (U)—The Illinois Commerce Commission met today for a hearing on the request of several railroads to lower coal hauling rates in a move to meet competition from barge lines.

The railroads, led by the Burlington, have asked for a 65-cent cut in the rate for shipping a ton of soft coal from southern Illinois mines to Chicago.

A group of eastern railroads which serve the Virginia and West Virginia coal fields has opposed the proposed reduction. The Eastern group, in petitions to both the Illinois and Interstate commerce commissions, contends that the reduction would force them to cut their rates proportionately.

The Eastern roads estimated such a reduction would cost them annual revenue losses totaling 100 million dollars.

Industry sources said 14 million tons of coal were shipped here last year from the Eastern fields.

ICC Examiner Forrest McElroy said that if the rate cut in Illinois is allowed, similar reductions would follow on coal shipped to Chicago from Kentucky and Indiana.

McElroy said almost 20 Illinois roads would be affected by the rate cut, including the North Western, the Milwaukee, the Gulf, Mobile and Ohio and the Chicago and Eastern Illinois.

The Burlington has asked that the rate reduction be made effective Dec. 6. The Illinois Central, forced to request a similar reduction because of the Burlington's action, has asked that the proposed rate be suspended pending a hearing.

This would delay the proposed reduction pending action by the Interstate and Illinois commissions.

Diplomat is Stricken by Heart Attack

Former Russian Foreign Minister Dies at Age of 70

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—Andrei Y. Vishinsky, acid-tongued head of the Russian delegation to the United Nations, died suddenly today of a heart attack.

The 70-year-old Vishinsky, one-time Russian foreign minister who took a back seat after the death of Russian Premier Josef Stalin a year and a half ago, was stricken at his delegation's Park Avenue headquarters shortly before he was to have participated in further debate on President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace plan.

First announcement of Vishinsky's death was made to the U. N. General Assembly by Assembly President Eelco N. Van Kleffens of the Netherlands shortly before 1 p. m.

It was repeated by Chairman Francisco Urrutia, to the General Assembly's Main Political Committee, where Vishinsky was to have appeared.

All United Nations meetings were suspended immediately.

Circumstances Not Known
Members of his own delegation at first refused to admit that he was ill, and later would confirm only that he had died.

Apparently the veteran diplomat had driven into the Russian New York headquarters on Park Avenue from their Glen Cove, N. Y., estate as usual this morning before suffering the attack.

The Park Avenue headquarters is about a mile from the huge, glass-walled U. N. building on the East River.

Ardaky Sobolev, Vishinsky's deputy who once served as assistant secretary-general of the U. N., confirmed that the veteran diplomat had died of a heart attack at the Russian headquarters at 680 Park Ave. in Manhattan.

Sobolev said he had learned of the death only a minute before it was announced here. The news was handed to him in a note from an aide.

Sobolev arrived late for this morning's plenary session of the United Nations to hear French Premier Pierre Mendes-France.

"I knew Mr. Vishinsky was ill when I came here," Sobolev said. "But I learned of his death just before it was announced."

Sobolev said Vishinsky had suffered a heart seizure, but he did not tell newsmen the time of the attack.

He said the Russian delegation would issue a formal announcement later.

The Russians were surrounded by other diplomats after the meeting adjourned. Many of the satellite representatives were in tears and pressed handkerchiefs to their faces as they left the building.

Lodge Issues Statement
U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., issued the following statement:

"Mr. Vishinsky represented one of the world's great powers with extraordinary energy and vigor."

"We who vigorously disagreed with him respected his forensic talent."

"The sympathy of the U. S. delegation goes out to his widow, his daughter and the Soviet delegation."

A British spokesman said in a statement the death "is deeply regretted."

"Mr. Vishinsky will be greatly missed in the U. N. where his vitality and energy have enlivened many debates . . ." he said.

Thief Steals $220 From Chester Church

CHESTER, Ill. (U)—A thief walked into the First Baptist church here Sunday afternoon and stole $220 which had been taken in the collection at the morning service.

The thief pried open a steel filing cabinet drawer where the money was kept in the pastor's study in the church.

The theft was discovered Sunday night when Thelma Wright, church treasurer, went to get the money to add it to the evening service collection and take the money to a night bank deposit box.

For Safer Driving

Editorial — By BRUCE BOSSAT

Good counsel on driving safety sometimes emerges from rather unexpected quarters. Most people probably imagine stock-car drivers are a pretty wild fraternity, if they think about them at all. But they practice some driving habits the average motorist could well follow.

Stock-car racers do go in for stunts to stir the crowd. Racing is, however, a serious matter to the best of them. They want to survive the rough and tumble of the often jam-packed track, and to make money. Safety is obviously an acute problem.

And their chief reliance is a very simple device—the safety belt. A broad strap not unlike those found in today's aircraft, this belt fastens tightly to the frame of the racing car. The driver stretches it across his thighs as he sits at the wheel.

With that protection, he is amazingly well fixed to meet most eventualities. On the stock-car tracks, accidents are nightly occurrences but serious injuries and fatalities are rare. Cars roll over, side-swipe others, spin completely around, slam into retaining walls, and pile into stalled vehicles.

Through it all, the driver usually stays tightly fastened in his seat, free of injury. His only real peril is fire. But the belt, firm though it is, unfastens quickly.

Stock-car racers long have been telling ordinary highway motorists they should copy this practice. A very substantial percentage of fatalities and injuries on the road would be eliminated if drivers were held tightly in their seats when a crash came.

Now the racers have been joined in this advice by scientists studying automobile safety problems at Cornell University. The latter have other recommendations, but none is more important than the safety belt.

To ask the motorist getting into his car for a 10-minute spin to the grocery store to don a safety belt is, of course, absurd. But on the open highway, when speed and split-second errors of judgment or control can reduce a man to a lifeless heap in a flash of time, the value of the belt is unmistakable.

It may not be easy to induce motor makers to provide safety belts, nor to educate drivers to use them. Undoubtedly they are something of a nuisance. Maybe they spoil the crease in a man's pants.

But if the highway death toll keeps piling up, the time may come soon when the driver will decide it's better to lose the crease in his pants than to get one in his head.

Peaceful Coexistence

Usually when the Russians shoot down an American plane, there are no survivors to tell what really happened. In the latest destructive assault on a B-29 off Japan, the pilot and nine of the other 10 crewmen bailed out safely.

Without an eyewitness, the customary Russian declaration that the plane was encroaching on Soviet soil would inevitably find some believers. At the very least, it would sow seeds of doubt in many minds.

But this time we can ask the pilot. He has assured Air Force authorities the ill-fated B-29 never was close to Russian territory at any time. We can nail that phony Soviet tactic for the lie it is.

The fact is the Russians practice this business of shooting down an occasional American plane as a deliberate policy. They have no thought this harassment will lead to war, nor is it intended to.

Its primary aims are to convince the Soviet home folks they are really surrounded by hostile foreign foes (that makes them easier to manage), and to try to humiliate America in the eyes of susceptible Europeans and Asians.

"Peaceful coexistence" must look pretty weird to a planetload of Americans who have just seen their craft cut to pieces by Russian gunfire.

Turkey Still Reigns As King Of Thanksgiving

By PATRICIA WIGGINS

WASHINGTON — The traditional turkey, roasted to a golden brown, still is the number one attraction on the nation's holiday dinner tables.

Other main dishes, from roast beef to roast chicken, have made inroads. But the Department of Agriculture says turkey remains "king" at Thanksgiving and Christmas. This year, there are more turkeys than ever before and they cost about five cents less a pound.

The department said some housewives are tempted by the lower prices and ample supplies of most red meats and chickens. Others seek, just for the sake of variety, a menu change from the turkey which has become the tradition of the festive board.

Many off-season sales of the birds at reduced prices have enabled consumers to buy and store the birds in home freezers — all ready to shove in the oven come holiday eating time. While there are no figures on the seasonality of consumption, there are figures which bear out the continued seasonal pattern of farmers' marketing.

From 1937 to this year, the percentage of the turkey crop marketed in November has fallen from 38 to 30.2 per cent. Marketings in December have dipped from 36 to 19.6 per cent. Annual per capita consumption figures also show an increase in off-season turkey eating. In 1930, Americans ate only about 1.5 pounds of turkey—just about enough to take care of two sittings — Thanksgiving and Christmas. Last year, the rate climbed to 4.4 pounds per person.

Here's the reason off-season eating has increased without much loss to traditional holiday feasts. Since 1930 total production has almost tripled—rising from 222,000,000 pounds to 702,000,000 pounds last year. This year's output is expected to hit a new high, up 9 per cent from 1953.

A check at one Washington chain store shows why shoppers take a second look at ham, roasts, and other meats when they do their holiday shopping. The chain store is offering turkeys at from 55 to 59 cents a pound; hams for 59 to 65 cents; and broilers and fryers from about 47 cents a pound.

Lamb still is above the turkey tag—at about 69 cents a pound. A top sirloin beef roast sells for about 98 cents a pound. A pot roast can be bought for about 65 cents a pound.

DREW PEARSON Says:
Sen. Cordon Bemoans Funds Poor Oregon Republicans; Case Bolt Was Forced By Governor-Elect Foss; Ike's Wrist Alarms Thwarts Windbags.

WASHINGTON — Lame-duck Senator Cordon of Oregon held an urgent, private conference last week with Jim Murphy, national chief of the Citizens for Eisenhower organization. With him was Oregon's national Republican committeeman, Jesse Gard. Cordon complained that his campaign for re-election had gone $26,000 in the red, and he pleaded with Murphy to make up the deficit from the Citizens for Eisenhower treasury.

Murphy was anything but receptive. If he did that, he replied, he would also have to make up campaign losses in Michigan and West Virginia—which would cost $200,000 and more than the Citizens for Eisenhower could afford. Besides, Murphy added, the organization was folding up and moving its furniture out.

Angrily Cordon claimed that Citizens for Eisenhower had promised to pay $750 to install telephones for the phone campaign—calling up people to get out the vote. The senator said he was able to get the phones installed for only $340, yet he hadn't received a cent from the organization. Murphy retorted that no one had authority to commit the Citizens for Eisenhower for the bill.

Calmly down, Cordon said he didn't really care about the $540. What he was interested in, he said, was collecting $26,000 to pay his campaign bills. Again, Murphy refused to put up the money.

Cordon then gloomily reported that the Republican party had gone to pieces in Oregon. It would have to be "rebuilt one thousand per cent up from the precinct level," he said.

As the conversation ended, committeeman Jesse Gard looked around the room and remarked, "I hope Drew Pearson isn't listening."

SURRENDER TERMS

Senators on the McCarthy censure committee have been mystified over the sudden bolt of one of their members, Senator Case of South Dakota, over to the McCarthy side. During secret debates on the McCarthy censure resolution, Case gave no hint that he was not in full agreement with the other committee members. So it was a shock when he rose on the Senate floor to try to find an alibi for the man he had hitherto opposed.

When pressed later for an explanation, Case merely said he was under great misapprehension. But he refused to say what he was compelled to do what he didn't want to do.

However, here is the explanation. The McCarthy forces got to Governor-elect Joe Foss in South Dakota, and he is now notified Case that if he didn't reverse himself on censuring McCarthy, he Foss, would run against him for re-election.

Foss is a popular war hero who led the Republican ticket in South Dakota and was partly responsible for nullifying Senator Mundt through victory. He is also a strong McCarthy man. Case comes up for re-election in a scant two years, and if the new governor ran against him he might well be defeated.

That was why the senator from South Dakota suddenly reversed himself on McCarthy. IKE'S ALARM CLOCK
President Eisenhower has developed a unique way of stopping long-winded conferences. He tried it out the other day during the two-and-a-half-hour meeting between Democratic and Republican leaders when John Foster Dulles got involved in a long and tedious, intricate "briefing" on foreign policy.

As Dulles droned on and on, leaders of both parties began to fidget in their chairs. Ike recognized this and looked at his state secretary several times as if to inquire how long he planned to continue.

Suddenly the alarm on Ike's wrist watch went off with a loud buzz. Whether the President had set the alarm before the meeting or changed it during the course of Dulles' statement to shut off the secretary is something only Ike knows.

In any case, there was a howl of laughter, with Ike adding a comic touch by grabbing at the watch to silence the alarm.

"Is that a signal for me to stop?" inquired Dulles sheepishly. "Maybe it is," agreed the President. "I didn't realize we were running so long."

The President was most frank in stating that he needed the strongest possible "help" and cooperation from the Democrats on foreign policy and national defense. Ike added that he realized this was a two-way proposition and he himself would demonstrate his sincerity and confidence in Democratic chiefs by consulting with them frequently on all matters of vital interest to the nation.

Eisenhower didn't implement the pledge by specifying how often—or on what specific bills—he would consult with the Democrats. The latter also couched their assurances of cooperation on national security issues in non-specific, but positive terms.

"Mr. President," declared Speaker-to-be Rayburn, "I can assure you that as far as my party in the House is concerned, we will cooperate with you to the fullest extent on legislation to insure a strong national defense and all other legislation affecting the safety of the nation. We feel that this is an obligation incumbent upon all Americans, regardless of party label."

SENATE BITTERNESS

Sen. William Fulbright of Arkansas is a quiet-spoken man who has done more to build up the peace of the world than perhaps any other senator. It was he, as a member of the House of Representatives, who introduced the Fulbright resolution asking Roosevelt to start, even-tempered, during the height of the war—working on a future peace treaty and the United Nations.

Later, as a member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee he introduced the Fulbright Exchange-Student plan which has built a solid foundation for better understanding.

So it's significant that this quiet-spoken, unemotional senator should state that the McCarthy debate has aroused more bitterness than "I've ever observed before on the political scene."

"The divisions in the Senate are deeper and more bitter," the senator added, "as a result of Senator McCarthy's activities. Every difference of opinion he ascribes to disloyalty."

Senator Fulbright said that another unfortunate aspect was that McCarthy had "succeeded in arousing religious prejudice."

"I've received the most vicious mail I have ever received in my life," the Arkansas senator said, "a considerable amount of it from New York and the northeast and around Chicago attacking me in the crudest, most violent terms."

The mail and the McCarthy demonstration, he concluded, inevitably have some effect on the Senate.

Recipe for Using Turkey Leftovers

NEW YORK — (AP) — Turkey for the Thanksgiving feast means the inevitable leftovers. But they need not be soup or hash.

Corn bread turkey sandwiches are an extra-delicious dish to use up the remains of the bird. The chopped, cooked meat is served between squares of corn bread, and then topped with a hot mushroom sauce. Use your favorite corn bread recipe, and prepare the squares ahead of serving time if desired.

To make the topping you will need: 4 chopped hard-cooked eggs; 1 cup of finely chopped cooked turkey; 1 can (10½ ounce) of cream of mushroom soup; ¾ cup of milk; 1 teaspoon of salt, and ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Combine half the chopped eggs, all the turkey, half the mushroom soup, ¼ cup of the milk, the salt and pepper. Fill corn bread squares with the turkey mixture, sandwich style. Heat in a cooky sheet in moderate oven (375 degrees) for about 15 minutes.

In the meantime, combine remaining eggs, mushroom soup and milk in a saucepan. Heat and then spoon on the squares. Serve immediately. For a gourmet touch, sprinkle the squares with blue cheese. Makes 6 servings.

In Memoriam
In loving memory of Brenda Jean Hendrickson, age 11, who was struck by a car and killed on the Dorris Heights highway, Nov. 21, 1952.

Little we knew with dawn that morn,
The sorrow it would bring.
The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We little thought the end was near.

If all the world were ours to give,
We would give it, yes and more;
To see your smiling face again,
Come shining through the door.

Sometimes it is hard to understand
Why some things have to be,
But in His wisdom God had planned
Beyond our power to see.

God gave us strength to bear it,
And Courage to meet the blow,
But what it meant to lose you,
This world will never know.

The beautiful things you did for us,
Live in our hearts each day,
And keep you have passed away,
Though you have passed away.

Sadly missed by Theodore, Claudine and Barbara Hendrickson. *124-1

Catholic Bishops Hit 'Atheistic Materialism'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Catholic Bishops of the United States declared Saturday the nation is threatened with destruction by "atheistic materialism" and "must recover and renew its Christian faith" to survive.

In their annual statement, the bishops bracketed "Godless humanism" with communism as the "enemy" that has tyrannized "a billion souls" and "threatens the destruction of our own land."

They said that despite a reported rise in U. S. church membership, "the trend in public and private morality has been downward" and disrespect for "God's law" is shown in "the lustful self-indulgence which leads from birth prevention to divorce, from broken homes to the broken lives of youthful delinquents."

The bishops also attacked a "form of materialism" which they said "reveals itself as secularism in politics and government, as avarice in business and in the professions, and as paganism in the personal lives and relations of all too many men and women."

The statement was issued at the conclusion of the bishops' three-day annual meeting here, concluded Friday, and signed in their name by the administrative board of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

The Army has approximately 45,000,000 square feet of space tied up in 147 maintenance shops in the United States and overseas.

Couple Robs Poor Boxes to Finance Trip

TERRE HAUTE (AP)—A California couple was held today for investigation of the wife's story that they financed a coast-to-coast trip in a stolen auto by robbing poor boxes in Catholic churches.

George S. Skaggs, 43, and his wife, Loran, 23, Novato, Calif., were arrested Friday night when a priest caught Skaggs trying to rip the poor box from the wall of St. Ann's Church.

Mrs. Skaggs gave a statement to Detective Clint Seward saying the couple robbed poor boxes in 60 to 75 cities since they started from the West Coast last March and headed East on a leisurely trip.

Mrs. Skaggs said the couple stopped at gasoline stations, ripped the church page from the telephone directory and made the rounds of churches to take from $2 to $35 from the poor boxes.

Seward found two Bibles in the stolen car and said they came from a church in Riverside, Calif.

Skaggs told Seward he stole the car in June at East St. Louis, Ill. Seward said Skaggs had a police record and served time in New York, Ohio, Minnesota and Iowa for thefts, check forgeries and Dyer Act violations.

Mrs. Skaggs said among the cities included in the poor box raids were Omaha and Fremont, Neb.; Reading, Harrisburg, Huntington and Mechanicsburg, Pa.; Marysville and Mt. Vernon, Ohio; Pekin and Peoria, Ill.; Decatur, Miss.; Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Jackson, Ala.; Waycross, Ga.; and Lebanon, Ind.

Air Ace Dies in Crash to Avoid Hitting Barrack

TOUROSIERE AIR BASE, France (AP)—A 33-year-old U. S. ace who downed 19 enemy planes in World War II chose death rather than risk killing some of his men in an emergency landing, the Air Force said today.

Lt. Col. John England, 33-year-old commander of the 389th Fighter Bomber Squadron, purposely pulled his Sabrejet up short of the runway here when he realized the hurtling plane might hit a barrack. He had had "a fair chance" of making the runway safely, Air Force officials said.

England had tried three radar landings without success. As his fuel gauge dropped to zero, he decided to attempt another "talk down" landing in the fog and darkness.

England, from Alexandria, La., recently led his squadron from Alexandria to Toul. He flew 114 combat missions in Europe during the last war and was awarded the Silver Star, the Distinguished Flying Cross with three clusters, and the French Croix de Guerre with star.

World-Wide Spiritual Offensive Urged By Methodist Bishop

CHICAGO (AP)—Leaders of Methodism were warned today that Christianity must "inaugurate a bold world-wide spiritual offensive."

The warning was sounded by Bishop Arthur J. Moore of Atlanta, Ga., at the opening session of a conference of Methodist district superintendents.

The Methodist Church's Council of Bishops Sunday adopted a message condemning universal military training.

The 50 bishops, winding up a four-day meeting, endorsed the U. S. Supreme Court's anti-segregation ruling and praised President Eisenhower for his attempts to foster "international cooperation and understanding."

The message is intended to set policy for the church's nine million members.

Gov't Report Shows Rise in Living Standard

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American standard of living has risen about 40 per cent in the past 25 years.

This was disclosed in a Commerce Department report Sunday night.

It also indicated that Americans now are producing more and better autos, houses, appliances and the like, and have more money to buy them.

The report on expansion of the gross national product since 1929, after adjustment for price increases and decreases in value of the dollar, showed that over the past 25 years:

1. The average American boosted his real output of goods and services by 57 per cent.

2. The average American raised the amount of goods and services he uses by about two-fifths.

Gross national product—the total of all goods and services produced annually—increased from 104 to 365 billion dollars after the allowance for price changes, the volume of goods and services produced annually rose 105 per cent.

National income jumped from 88 in 1929 to 305 billion dollars last year. Personal income accounted for most of it—from 86 to 286 billion dollars. Higher prices and "cheaper" dollars have eaten up much of this gain, however.

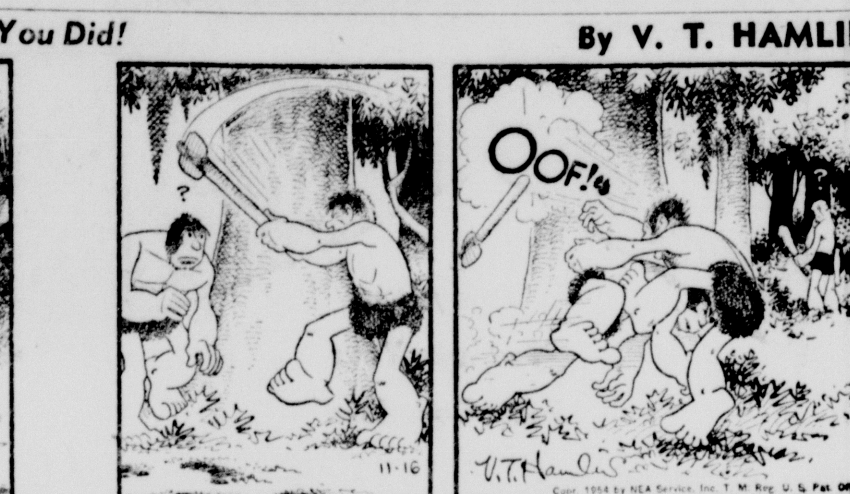

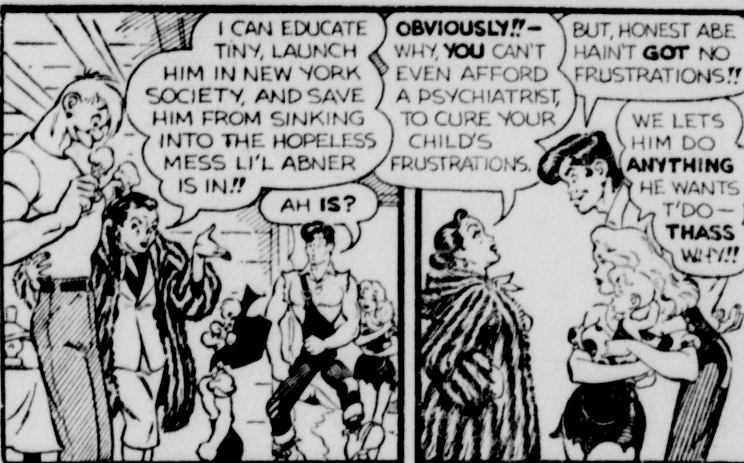

Eisenhower Buys Christmas Seals

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower bought $5 worth of tuberculosis Christmas seals today to open the 1954 sales campaign.

Mr. Eisenhower received the seals from Dr. Esmond R. Long, director of medical research at the National Tuberculosis Assn. Long has known the disease as patient, physician and scientific investigator.

Boy Pays Parking Fine in Installments

AUBURN, N. Y. (AP)—Mom didn't know it, but an eight-year-old boy paid a parking ticket here.

The boy came running down the street as a policeman put a 50-cent parking ticket on his mother's car.

"I was supposed to watch the meter while she went shopping," he said. "I'll get the devil if she finds out."

The boy offered to pay the ticket himself—10 cents down, 40 cents on the installment plan. Police agreed. They even promised to withhold his name, so his mother wouldn't find out.

Nehru Pays Tribute To Eisenhower

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru paid tribute today to President Eisenhower for the part he played in avoiding war this year.

Nehru told the Indian Parliament he feared that crises between the East and West would have erupted into World War III.

Without disaster and on this matter I would like to pay tribute to the part played by the President of the United States in avoidance of war," Nehru said.

Before work could begin on the present granite Capitol in Austin, Texas the Legislature set aside three million acres of land, located in the Texas Panhandle to finance it.

Looking At Sports

By BILL MELTON

Comes the time of the year when the sports fan reads about the various football bowl games now shaping up, the prospects of collegiate basketball squads, good and bad news on boxing, and last—but not least—about the annual draft in baseball and news of the Major-Minor League meetings to be held in Houston, Texas.

You'll get a lot of news about all these sports, and especially about the Major-Minor League meetings in The Sporting News.

Here is how you score yourself in The Sporting News Sports Quiz. You get four guesses. Mark your choices 1-2-3-4. If you're right on a first pick you score ten points, five for a second, three for a third and one for a fourth. Twenty points is average, forty very good and fifty is perfect.

1. Leading candidates for spots in New Year's Day bowl games are Arkansas, Georgia, Southern California, Ohio State, Nebraska and Maryland. The top bowl games are the Rose, Sugar, Cotton and Orange. One of the colleges listed below has played in all four. Can you name the school?

- () Auburn () Pittsburgh
() Georgia () Tennessee
() Missouri () Texas

2. Major league clubs in searching for a new manager often turn to the Pacific Coast League and especially the Oakland club. Chuck Dresen managed Oakland in 1954 and Lefty O'Doul has just signed to manage the club for 1955. Can you name an ex-Oakland manager from the managers listed below.

- () Stan Hack () Casey Stengel
() Jim Dykes () Fred Haney

3. Archie Moore has started a "write-in" campaign for a shot at the heavyweight boxing championship. Among his claims for a title shot is the fact that he knocked out Nino Valdez, one of the leading contenders. Moore hasn't mentioned this, but in his long career he was knocked out by a former heavyweight champion, and also lost two decisions to the same fighter. Who is he?

- () Braddock () Schmeling
() Charles () Sharkey
() Louis () Walcott

4. Joe Fuls led the pro basketball scorers in the 1946-47 season and was second in the next two seasons. But can you name the high scorer for the 1953-54 season?

- () Cousy () Johnston () Schayes () Macauley () Mikan () Sharman

5. The major leagues drafted 13 players last year, but most of them were sent back to the minor leagues. Can you name the player listed below who finished the season with the club that drafted him?

- () Bright () Melton
() Lynch () Thompson

Wildcats Drop 51-41 Game at Pinckneyville

Panthers Take Final Quarter Lead In Close Contest

Carrier Mills' Wildcats dropped a 51-41 decision to Pinckneyville on the Panthers' floor Saturday night.

It was a see-saw game for three quarters with Carrier Mills always within touching distance and often times holding slight leads. However, just before the third period ended the winning Panthers spurred to a 5-point advantage, then continued to control the game in the first minutes of the fourth quarter, going ten points in front at one time.

The 'Cats rallied to close the spread, then Pinckneyville again gained control and by hitting a basket just as the buzzer sounded carried off a ten point decision.

It marked the second consecutive loss of the weekend for Carrier Mills, but in defeat the 'Cats gained lots of support and respect.

In two nights they met two of the most feared cage teams in this section of the state—Mt. Vernon and Pinckneyville—and lost by a combined spread of 18 points.

Rollins Scores 25 Points

On Friday night against last year's state champions the 'Cats dropped an 8-point decision, 61-53, and then Saturday against last year's third place state winner the Carrier Mills cagers were losers by just 51-41. And both games were on the road.

Once again Oliver Rollins displayed winning ability, scoring 25 points and taking care of his share of the defensive load. In four games the big Negro junior has scored 98 points.

Carrier Mills will be idle until Friday, Dec. 3, when the team again hits the road, playing at Johnston City. Then will come a home game, Dec. 7, against Cave-in-Rock.

Saturday's preliminary game resulted in a 64-38 Pinckneyville win. The box score of the feature game:

Ohio State Wins Rose Bowl Berth, to Meet Southern Cal, Loser to UCLA, 34-0

By United Press

All-conquering Ohio State was officially presented today with a berth in the Rose Bowl, but two of the other choice prizes of the football weekend—bids to the Cotton and Orange Bowls—went to losers.

Arkansas, despite a 7-6 upset by Louisiana State, became the Southeastern Conference's official representative in the Cotton Bowl when Southern Methodist was beaten by Baylor, 33-21.

And Nebraska, despite a blood-chilling 55-7 thrashing by Oklahoma, became the Big Seven's official team for the Orange Bowl when Kansas State was beaten by Colorado, 38-14. Nebraska finished second in the league, but Oklahoma is barred from the bowl because it played in it last year.

Still another bowl team suffered a black eye when Southern California, the Pacific Coast Conference's Rose Bowl team, was trounced by UCLA, 34-0. The victory gave UCLA, currently rated the nation's No. 1 team by the United Press Board of Coaches the PCC championship, but the Uclans are barred from the bowl for the same reason as Oklahoma.

out the possibility of a Rose Bowl meeting of the nation's two highest-rated teams. Ohio State, ranked second, sewed up the Big Ten's championship and bowl berth by rallying to beat Michigan, 21-7, and was properly rewarded on Sunday when a Big Ten vote made the bowl bid official.

Two spots in the Sugar Bowl: One is believed being held for the Southeastern Conference champion, Mississippi (4-1-0) can clinch that league's crown by whipping Mississippi State this Saturday; if the Miss loses, Georgia Tech (5-2-0) can take it by beating Georgia; if both lose, Kentucky (5-2-0) and finished will take it. The other berth could go to a Southwest Conference team, Baylor, Rice or SMU or perhaps a top independent team like Penn State.

One spot in the Orange Bowl: This will go to the Atlantic Coast Conference's representative, to be chosen by league vote. Duke (3-0-0) could finish on top by beating North Carolina, but a Duke defeat would leave Maryland (4-0-1) and finished on top.

One spot in the Cotton Bowl: Could go to West Virginia, which finished on top in the Southern Conference with 3-0-0 or perhaps to one of the Southeastern Conference's other teams.

Conference Races

Here's how the situation in unsettled major conference races stands:

Ivy League: Harvard's 13-9 victory over Yale gave Harvard its first "Big Three" title since 1941 and prevented Yale from clinching the Ivy crown. Now Cornell can match Yale's 4-2-0 record by beating Pennsylvania on Thanksgiving Day.

Skyline: Denver and Wyoming each have 5-1-0 records, but Wyoming has finished league play. Thus the title depends on Denver's meeting with Colorado A and M on Thursday.

Southwest: Baylor can tie Arkansas for the league title by beating Rice on Saturday. Even so, the bowl bid would belong to Arkansas, which beat Baylor, 21-20, this season.

Missouri Valley: Wichita (3-0-0) can clinch by beating Tulsa on Thursday. If Wichita loses, Houston (2-1-0) can tie by beating Detroit on Dec. 4.

NEW 1955 LINCOLN—An all-new and exclusive Turbo Drive automatic transmission with a specially designed throttle kickdown is featured in 1955 model Lincoln and Lincoln Capri cars. Engine power has been increased to 225 horsepower, with major improvements in displacement and compression ratio to achieve more efficient and economical performance. Styling refinements include a newly designed front end, a longer rear quarter panel with a distinctive tail light assembly, and new two-tone upholstery combinations finished in striking moose skin stitching. Pictured is a two-toned Lincoln Capri coupe. The new Lincoln will be on display Tuesday at Wiley Motor Co., local dealer.

Hoover Flies to Germany to Get Thanks of Nation

BONN, Germany (AP)—Former U. S. President Herbert Hoover flew back to a booming, resurgent Germany today to receive in person the thanks of a nation he helped rescue from hunger, economic ruin and despair.

He arrived at nearby Wahn Airfield and was greeted by West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, U. S. High Commissioner James B. Conant and other German and American officials.

Adenauer invited Mr. Hoover to visit West Germany again several months ago in appreciation of his work in feeding hungry Germans immediately after the war.

Mr. Hoover will go to other German cities, including Berlin, during his official visit.

"The German people seem to think I have been of great service to them after two wars," Mr. Hoover said Sunday before leaving New York's Idlewild Airport in President Eisenhower's plane.

Alaska has a longer ocean coastline than the United States.

1955 Lincoln Now on Display; 225 Horsepower, New Transmission Featured

The new 1955 model Lincoln and Lincoln Capri with a restyled exterior, an entirely new and exclusive Turbo Drive transmission, a redesigned overhead valve V-8 engine developing 225 horsepower and major chassis innovations will be on display tomorrow at the Wiley Motor Co., local dealer.

A new horizontal grille bar behind the front bumpers and a new gold Lincoln crest create a distinctive ornamentation to the new models. A forward thrust is implied by a new headlight bezel which rakes to the front.

A new rear quarter panel eight inches longer than in previous models is culminated in an unusual canted tail assembly, complementing the headlight treatment. Twin exhaust vents are a part of the rear bumper assembly.

Lincoln for 1955 has an advanced design automatic transmission which combines fluid torque converter with three speed planetary gear to give the ultimate in smooth performance through all driving ranges. Exclusive features make it more flexible than any previous transmission. A specially designed throttle kickdown permits a particularly fast getaway.

Dual exhausts are standard equipment on the 1955 Lincoln. They give better economy, faster acceleration and higher top speed. The system consists of an additional exhaust system installed on the left side of the engine, duplicating the one on the right side. A new manifold goes on the left side and the cross-over pipe is eliminated.

A powered lubrication system which lubricates the car by the mere press of a button is available on 1955 model Lincolns. This accessory, known as Multi-Luber, provides constant lubrication of the chassis, suspension and steering systems.

The system consists of a master cylinder located in the engine compartment from which nylon tubing extends to each front end chassis bearing. On the tip of each nylon tube is a coupling which fits over the regular grease fitting. A press of the control button on the instrument panel activates a plunger in the master cylinder which forces the required amount of light lubricating grease through each tube into the bearing.

New tubeless tires are standard equipment and provide insurance against blowouts and punctures. A new tread design gives greater traction and virtually ends tire squeal.

Luxurious new interiors have been created by Lincoln stylists in keeping with the modern design of the car. Good taste is in evidence throughout the all new two-tone upholstery combinations featuring horseshoe shaped bolsters finished with moose skin stitching. Modern nylon fabrics and leather are used effectively.

Prospects Good for Women Engineers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The woman engineer can just about write her own job ticket.

The labor department says there is a shortage of engineering graduates and urges women to enter the field.

There is a relatively wide choice of employment for the college-trained woman engineer today," said Mrs. Alice K. Leopold, director of the women's bureau. "It is up to the individual woman to make the choice," because individual employers in almost every kind of industry seem willing to hire qualified engineers."

There are approximately 3,600 women engineers working today, she said. Salaries reported in 1953 by the Society of Women Engineers ranged mostly from $4,000 to $6,000 annually, but about 25 per cent were above $6,000. More than three-fourths had been working for five years or less.

When, Why is a Street Not an Alley?

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—An irate woman called into traffic court for a parking violation created a stir when she raised several legal riddles.

Mrs. Lucille Baklanoff was charged with parking within 20 feet of an intersection. She said there was no such intersection and offered maps to support her claim. "Pearl Avenue at East 17th Avenue isn't a street; it's an alley," she told Judge Charles R. Petree. "If it's an alley, I wasn't parked within 20 feet of an intersection and am not guilty."

The judge and prosecutor huddled and called the city's chief draftsman. He said his maps showed Pearl Avenue a street on one side of 17th Avenue and an alley on the other.

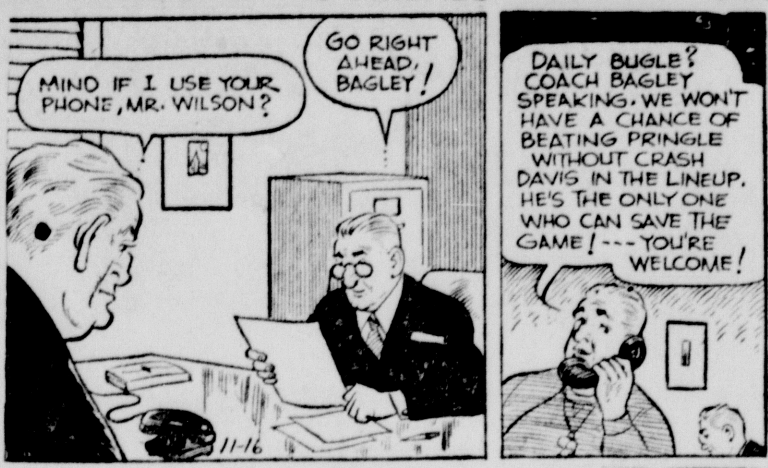

The judge decided that alleys are the same as streets for traffic purposes and imposed a $5 fine, with costs suspended.

But Mrs. Baklanoff had the last word. "If alleys are the same as streets, why doesn't the city take care of them like streets?" she asked.

FINED
Earl Vinyard yesterday paid a fine and costs of $11.40 upon his plea of guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol when arraigned before Police Magistrate Charles McKenzie. He was arrested Saturday evening by state police after his car hit an auto on North Main street.

Postmaster Urges Three Point Plan To Insure Christmas Mail Delivery

Postmaster A. M. Hetherington today announced a three-point program designed to insure delivery of all Christmas cards and gift packages by December 25.

"I've found," he explained, "it's not enough to slap up posters all over town saying, 'Shop Early, Mail Early.' That's the main idea of course, but I'd like to be more specific."

Specifically, then, the postmaster urged business firms to mail their regular correspondence before 4:00 p. m. throughout the Christmas season. They can help even more, he added, by withholding all circular and catalogue mail until after the critical period, Dec. 15-25.

"This will leave elbow room at the post office to process the tremendous volume of holiday mail we'll be handling. I'm quite sure it will exceed the record of cancellations set here in 1954," the postmaster warned.

Point 2, consequently, requires the public's cooperation. Begin by checking your Christmas card list this week. Each address should include the full name, street and number, city, zone and state.

After this, visit the post office to order the stamps you'll need. Lay in a supply of heavy wrapping paper and strong cord as well. Then there will still be a week left for leisurely Christmas shopping—one New Year's resolution you can keep!

Finally, the post office itself has moved into high gear. Temporary postal employees have been sworn in, delivery trucks overhauled and, yes, all inkwells filled. So just do your part, and remember all gift packages should be mailed by Dec. 15, all Christmas cards by at least a week before Christmas.

Song Masters Present Concert to Large and Enthusiastic Audience

By John Schork
Demonstrations once again the appeal of male singing groups, the Song Masters sang yesterday afternoon to a packed house in the auditorium of the First Presbyterian church. This was the first of the season's programs for the Harrisburg Community Concert association. Local members and out-of-town visitors made up a large and enthusiastic audience.

The Song Masters is a fairly new concert attraction, but one which is enjoying well-deserved popularity. The four singers present a program of music that is unusually well chosen for style and emotional appeal. Modern songs, folk music, German lieder, old English madrigals and French art songs are presented with a fine sense of style and interpretation.

Four songs by Schubert (enlivened by a Brahms serenade, sung with an appropriate touch of humor) were the highlight of the performance. "An Die Musik" and "Nacht und Trauer" were especially beautiful. The latter number, with its long, sustained phrasing, is one of the loveliest of all songs. The public address system in the church chose a most unfortunate time to feed back some dance music, marring an otherwise moving performance of "The Erlking."

The voices of the four Song Masters are splendidly balanced and blended, capable of extreme range of dynamics and coloring. Only in very loud passages does their intonation suffer, a circumstance which is the rule rather than the exception in vocal ensembles.

There is an "oneness" in the group that approaches perfection, both in diction and vocal coloring. Especially in selections from "Mikado," where clean diction is so vital, the four singers displayed their exceptional clarity and unity. It is a policy of all concert performers under the management of Columbia Concerts to present programs that will have something for every type of listener. The numbers performed after the intermission in this case were such that even the most untrained listener could enjoy. They were presented, however, with exceptional taste and no air of "singing down" to anybody. My only suggestion would be an omission of the "shouting" in "Dry Bones." It might very well prove offensive to some listeners, although I feel sure there is no intention of disrespect on the part of the singers. In this final section of the program the men proved themselves actors as well as singers. Their informal manner of showmanship proved a delight to the large audience, which demanded (and got) general encore numbers.

Miss Helena Kaprielian was an adequate assisting artist at the piano, performing a group of Debussy compositions as her solo contribution.

At intermission time Mrs. Joseph Hart, general chairman of the local association, discussed the possibility of chartering buses to transport local members to Carbondale for community concerts later in the season.

9 Area Counties Share $17,204 Forest Receipts

States in the north central region of the U. S. Forest Service recently received $610,183 as their share in national forest receipts for the fiscal year 1954.

Regional Forester H. Dean Cochran reports that checks totaling that amount were mailed to the states last month for distribution to the counties in which the forests are located. They represent 25 per cent of the revenue received from timber sales and special use fees.

An additional 10 per cent of 1954 receipts, amounting to $211,456, is being spent locally for improvement of the road systems on the forests.

Current payments bring the total national forest payments to the states in this region, under the 25 per cent law, to more than 4 million dollars, according to the regional forester.

This year Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Ohio, and Wisconsin received checks ranging from $2,966 to $184,270. Iowa and North Dakota, the other 2 states in the north central region, contain no national forests but receive 25 per cent of the income from small areas of land administered by the Forest Service.

Distribution of the 25 per cent fund to the counties is based on the proportionate share of national forest land. In Illinois, nine counties in which Shawnee National Forest is located, shared $17,204.90 as follows:

County	Area (acres)	Amt. paid
Alexander	24,689	$2,014.99
Gallatin	9,121	744.41
Hardin	17,374	1,417.97
Jackson	29,766	2,429.35
Johnson	8,377	683.69
Massac	3,034	247.62
Pope	76,823	6,269.90
Saline	10,752	877.52
Union	30,870	2,519.45

The national forest in southern Illinois dates only from 1933, when purchase units were set up. The first 25 per cent payment was made three years later and amounted to $114.81. Revenues have increased year by year since then and to date a total of $161,283 has been paid to the counties.

For the Holidays: Long-Torso Look

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK—(NEA)—The long-torso look and flat line of the Twenties, as revived and freshly interpreted by Christian Dior, appears most nostalgically in the collections of American designers for the holidays. These holiday party dresses have the flavor of an F. Scott Fitzgerald story and the sparkle of a John Held Jr. cartoon. They have wider shoulder straps, flounced skirts or pleated skirts that fan out from the neckline. They're worn with long ropes of Chanel beads or with a choker and long ropes in combination.

They have wit, dash and certainly, youthfulness. They're not for everybody. But for the right girls, they're wonderful.

We show a printed cotton gown by Mr. Mort (left) with gold print on a beige background. There's the longer torso line, the high-rising bust line and wider shoulder straps. Hand-painted lace dress by Elfreda (right) has brown flower pattern on background of black.

HOLLYWOOD TODAY!
MOVIES - TV - RADIO
by Erskine Johnson

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Exclusively Yours: Ingrid Bergman, I hear, is ready to try for a Hollywood comeback. For the first time since she went to Italy, the star is confiding to pals in London that she's considering accepting one of several offers made to her by Movietown producers. . . . Marlon Brando's T-shirt era must be over. He's buying enough wardrobe to be all 10 of the nation's best-dressed men. . . . Jerry Lewis' return to health brings him back into the TV spotlight with Dean Martin on the Dec. 19 Comedy Hour over NBC.

Howard Hughes decided on "Underwater!" as the release title for Jane Russell's flicker, "The Big Rainbow."

Video gossip item: "Look for either a 'Today' or 'Tonight' show to come out of Las Vegas around New Year's Eve."

Today? Who's up in the daytime in Vegas?

A stork visit is the happy reason why Eva Marie Saint, the blonde Duse of "On the Waterfront," isn't accepting Movietown offers. She's wed to TV director Jeffrey Hayden.

THE ROD CAMERON'S say there's not a ghost of a chance for reconciliation before the divorce is final. "I'd rather be a married man," he told me on Republic's "Santa Fe Passage" set. "But there's no point in going on with a marriage if you're both killing each other."

Virginia Grey raises goose pimples telling friends about the week that was erased from her memory when her head was injured in a near-fatal auto accident. She had just wound up work on a "Waterfront" TV film when the smashup occurred. Recently, she was shown the film and could not remember having made it or spoken the lines.

Debbie Reynolds and Eddie Fisher will have to work out the knotty religious angles to their upcoming marriage. The experts say that they can't be married by both a minister and a rabbi, as the pair announced, and that one will have to accept the faith of the other if it is to be a religious ceremony.

JOHN CARRADINE, often called another John Barrymore, is even talking like the late Great Profile.

As a luncheon guest of a service club in Rockport, Ind., during filming of "The Kentuckian," he was asked to read some lines from the movie. Carradine replied haughtily, because:

"I AM A STAGE ACTOR! Occasionally, as I wander through life, I just stop in Hollywood to pick a few berries to finance my stage career."

Stephen Longstreet's Hollywood novel, "The Beach House," is being adapted for Broadway by Ralph Rose. . . . The Ritz Brothers, working up a routine to kid Mae West's night-club act in their Flamingo Hotel opening, have hired two 300-pound Amazons.

Clark Gable, vexed by Susan Hayward's bow-out from "Soldier of Fortune," is aiming high for a costar replacement. He wants Grace Kelly, Ava Gardner, Audrey Hepburn or Deborah Kerr.

MEDICAL TESTS on Bridget Duff, who's the tot of Ida Lupino and Howard Duff, reveal that the operation to remove a growth from her arm was successful.

Hollywood's about to dish up a new type of cowboy to replace the brave silent type glorified by Alan Ladd in "Shane." It's a brave Kirk Douglas in "Man Without a Star," but he's grinning it:

"I'm a cowboy who TALKS!" With four unreleased films on the shelf, Kirk and wife, Anne Buydens, are headed for an Aca-pulco vacation they're calling a second honeymoon. "On the first one," says Kirk, "Anne went alone." He was tied up with movie making after the ceremony and Anne returned alone to her native Paris to sever personal ties.

Still being kidded for his "Bye-Bye Blues" banjo strumming on that Jack Benny TV show, Kirk's planning to rib the ribbers on a future appearance now being cooked up by Benny's writers.

Mario Lanza, a hot candidate for Paramount's "The Vagabond King" a few weeks ago, won't do the picture.

Not even by sending over a couple of two-year-old recordings of his voice.

George Gobel's deadpan suggestion to a photographer posing him for a magazine portrait in color:

"I'll change color a little if you want me to."

Social Security Retirement Test To Be Liberalized

According to E. Bishop Hill, district manager of the Social Security Administration office at Harrisburg, there have been many inquiries regarding the new retirement test included in the 1954 Amendments to the Social Security Act.

For the remainder of 1954, any person under 75 years of age who is receiving social security benefits must report his employment if he works in covered employment and earns over $75 for any month, or if he is self-employed and expects his net income for his taxable year to exceed $900.

Beginning January 1955, persons age 72 or over may continue to receive their social security benefits regardless of the amount of their earnings. Those who are already 72 years of age and are working, or reach age 72 at any time after 1954 should report this to their local social security office so their benefits can be started. The only exception to this will be in the case of a self-employed person who operates on a fiscal year basis, and his taxable year starts after December 1954. The age 72 provision will apply to him when his new taxable year begins in 1955.

Those persons under age 72, who are receiving benefits, must report to their social security office beginning January 1955 if they expect their total annual earnings to exceed $1200. In arriving at expected earnings for the year all earnings must be combined, including wages and self-employment income, whether or not such earnings are covered under the Social Security Act. Although earnings in covered and non-covered employment or self-employment must be counted, the amounts received must be for services. Therefore, income in the nature of pensions, or returns on investments not in connection with the operation of a business will not cause benefits to be withheld. When total earnings exceed $1200, payment of benefits must be withheld for one or more months depending on the amount of the excess.

Record Turkey Crop is Ready for Thanksgiving

FOR NEW LOOK Thanksgiving pleasure—roasted "tucked" turkey with spiced apples.

By GAYNOR MADDON
NEA Food and Markets Editor
Good news for the American Thanksgiving menu—we have a record-large crop of turkeys. The trend in both large and small turkeys, according to S. J. Marsden of the United States Department of Agriculture, seems to be toward white birds. He adds that the ready-to-cook bird, processed by experts in sanitary plants, promises to supplant in popularity the "dressed" bird which has to be drawn and requires lots of preparation at home before it is ready for the oven.

There's also a new look to turkeys this year. They are coming to market in a convenient size which eliminates trussing and sewing after stuffing.

Both the small grown, Beltsville-style turkeys for the small family and the large-size regular hen and tom turkeys are frozen "tucked."

As purchased, the legs are pulled into and held by an opening cut low below the breast bone. After thawing the turkey according to directions on the wrapper, pull the legs back from the slit and remove the parchment-wrapped giblets. Stuff the turkey through the ready-cut opening, tuck the legs back into the original position and the bird is ready for the oven.

Most experts now recommend that the stuffed bird be brushed with melted fat and covered lightly with aluminum foil or cheese cloth and placed on a rack in a roasting pan. Roast without additional covering in a slow (325 degrees F.) oven according to the weight and type of bird. Complete instructions are carried on the clear wrapper in which the bird is purchased.

Scientific tests also show that basting the birds does not increase juiciness and the hot fat may have a tendency to toughen the skin, so let the bird roast unwatched and unattended until a meat thermometer inserted in the thigh muscle next to the body registers 190 degrees F. and the drumstick can be moved up and down easily. Remove from the oven about 30 minutes before carving time to allow the juices to "set."

Madness In The Spring

By Elaine Dennison

THE STORY: Greg Seaver, leaving a relatively secure job in search of adventure, has become chauffeur for Wade Daggett, a wealthy invalid who has not long to live. Together they go out to travel in a trailer, seeking adventure. Then Rupert Landusky, a displaced person, is rescued by them from a possible death by exposure in a field where he had been left by the plane that brought him into the country. Greg questions the wisdom of keeping the smuggled alien with them, but the man's need for food and rest is the most important thing to be taken care of.

X1

When Greg awakened Rupert for lunch, the latter sat up beaming and not at all apologetic. He glanced once toward the liquor shelf and when he saw that it was empty he smiled and devoted himself to his meal as though he expected it to be his last.

When he had finished, he said with the overemphasis that Greg so disliked, "I am warm. I am safe. I am fed. I do not want to move from this spot. Ever." Then he laughed and sprang to his feet. "And now," he said gaily, "I will wash the dishes."

Greg, who had intended to assign this task to him, felt a trifle let down. As soon as the dishes were put away, Rupert crawled into the upper bunk and fell into a heavy sleep.

"Exhaustion," Daggett explained, "and malnutrition. And for some people sleep, like alcohol, blanks out what they lack the courage to face."

"Cheaper, too. Pity he doesn't stick to it."

There was a quizzical expression around Daggett's eyes. Intolerance that was so dogmatic should be outlawed in anyone over 23, he thought. He said aloud, "You don't like him."

"I can't figure him out."

"He may surprise you."

"That," Greg admitted, "is what I'm afraid of." Because of the trailer they skirted Boston. Rupert sat beside Greg while Daggett, who tired easily, was propped up in the back seat of the convertible.

Rupert pulled a key from his pocket, tossed it up in the air and caught it with a dexterous flick of his wrist. The car struck a bump and the key was jarred out of his hand. He scrambled around until he found it.

"Looking for a house that will fit?" Greg asked idly.

Rupert slipped the key into his pocket. "There is no house that it fits."

It was not until they reached a small industrial town that the alien was interested in his surroundings. "This is America," he declared.

"Standard brand," Greg said. "Uglier than most."

"Ugly, yes, but it is alive, young, thrusting ahead into the future, believing that there will be a future. To a European that is a miracle in which no man dares believe."

His harsh voice was momentarily drowned out by the shrill noon whistle of a factory, the siren of an ambulance, the tooting of horns. "It is full of contradictory rhythms and cacophony like a Stravinsky ballet."

"Nothing here but box factories," Greg pointed out.

"Why not boxes? Boxes to carry all the things in the advertisements. Think of boxes that way. Carrying furs to New England and beach umbrellas to Florida. I used to read American advertisements and dream—"

"Of Florida beaches?"

"Of merchandising methods," Rupert said in a tone of such ecstasy that Daggett let out a blast of delighted laughter. Rupert turned to look at him. "Do you realize what that means? That people believe that they will be here tomorrow and next year; that the furniture will be used in a house with four walls and a roof, a house that will stand. The dispossessed do not buy, Mr. Daggett. They have no place to put their purchases. I like advertising. It means a kind of faith that seems fantastic and wonderful to me. Some day, if I am not told to move on—I for all his lack of stress he made the contingency seem wildly improbable—"I am going to take a product and make millions of people want it, make them feel they cannot be happy without it."

"And suppose they can't afford it?" Greg insisted.

"Of course," Rupert agreed. "So the mama says, 'I must have it,' and the papa works harder and makes more money so he can buy it for mama and there is more business for everyone."

"So what?" Greg said sourly.

"I thought," Rupert lamented, "you were more enterprising. Take this town. It is dynamic and you complain because it is not pretty."

"You had better take a closer look at it. I've got to stock up on food, suppose you come along and carry bundles."

There was an electric silence and then Rupert inquired, "Will they ask for my papers?"

"Why should they?"

Rupert swaggered down the street beside Greg, wearing one of Daggett's hats at a jaunty angle and wrapped in an overcoat that belonged to the old man. It fitted his bony frame like a blanket.

The effect should have been ludicrous, but he draped the coat over his shoulders like a cape and managed to invest it with a certain rakish grace. Rupert looked like a swashbuckling character straight out of Dumas and he invested his movements with old-world glamor, while he thirsted after American roots.

In the middle of the street a policeman was directing traffic. Greg grasped Rupert's arm and started toward him. Under his hand he felt the thin arm grow rigid. Then Rupert pulled away with a spasmodic jerk. Greg asked the officer for directions and turned to Rupert. He was gone.

That's Right, Lady,
Your Feet are Bigger

DETROIT — No offense intended, ma'am, but you got big feet.

What's more, they're getting bigger all the time.

Risking the chance he might be run out of town on a rail, the president of the Michigan Shoe Retailers Association gave the womenfolk this bitter news during his organization's annual convention here.

"Our women have the biggest feet in the world, on the average, and they seem to be getting still bigger," Morton Hack said.

Thirty years ago, Hack said, the average woman took a 6B shoe size. Today, he said, she takes a 7½B.

"It's all part of the changing pattern," Hack explained. "Women are getting rid of the Cinderella complex—the mistaken idea that small feet are dainty."

"Small feet usually are not dainty," Hack said. "They are generally pudgy, foreshortened, with no grace. Women with large feet are more pleasant, as generous of character as of pedal extremities."

Elizabeth II Signs Own Holiday Cards

LONDON — Britain's Queen Elizabeth II prefers personalized Christmas cards. She also likes to sign them herself.

The young queen already has ordered several hundred cards and they are in her desk at Buckingham Palace so she can sign a few at a time between official duties. This year's card which will go to relatives and close friends has a mounted copy of a family photograph.
